

WIFE RECEIVED POISONED SWEETS

Said to Have Been Sent by Husband.

IS A CANDY SALESMAN

Accused Is Under Arrest, But Denies
Malicious Intent—Says Woman
Is Jealous.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—On a charge of sending poisoned candy to his wife, S. W. Sangster, a traveling salesman for the Chicago Candy Company, is under arrest at Lawrence, Kansas. An examination of the sweets by chemical experts showed that they contained large quantities of arsenic.

Sent in Suit Case.

The candy was received by Mrs. Sangster September 1. She said it was sent to her by her husband in a suit case with other articles. Mrs. Sangster and her twelve-year-old daughter, Anna Margaret, ate some of the candy. The mother experienced no ill effect, but the daughter became suddenly ill. A physician was called who gave her an emetic, and in a few hours she had fully recovered. Mrs. Sangster took the candy to the Hyde Park police station a few days ago and reported the circumstances of her daughter's poisoning.

Through the Chicago Candy Company, for which firm Sangster has long been a road salesman, he was located at Lawrence, and the Kansas authorities asked to arrest him.

Husband's Denial.

Sangster admitted sending a lot of candy, but denied that it contained poison. He said he took the package from his sample case and did not open it before shipping it. He had been sending his wife a monthly allowance of $50.

He said she had him arrested a year ago, charging him with eloping with another woman, but that he had no trouble in exonerating himself of the charge. He attributes his wife's actions to insane jealousy.

ENGLISH PRINCE SPENDS DAY SIGHTSEEING

(Continued from First Page.)

Peirse, C. H. Dare, and H. G. K. Hall, of the British squadron; Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, and Naval Attaché Capt. F. E. C. Ryan, Admiral George Dewey, Lieutenant Commander S. S. Wood, Admiral Com-verse, Admiral Robley D. Evans, and Lieut. Walter S. Crozier, Admiral Davis, Admiral Brownson, Lieutenant commanders Chapin and Key, Lieutenant Bricker and Ensign J. C. Fremont, jr., Generals Chaffee, Bates, Ainsworth, Burton, Davis, Humphrey, Sharpe, O'Reilly, Dodge, Mackenzie, Crozier, Mills, Wade, Grant, Harries, Colonel Hatfield, Bromwell, Allen, Kerr, Witherspoon, Majors Burr, Hoyle, Beach, and Captains Lockbridge, Hutcheson, and Michie.

The small banquet hall at the Willard was tastefully arranged with flags of Great Britain and the United States, and the decorations gave it the atmosphere of a gathering of brother officers, whose sympathies and interests are in common. The semi-dress uniforms were, in their simplicity, quite gorgeous. After the luncheon, which proved to be very enjoyable, a few moments were given to exchange of reminiscences in the lives of those present. Such cordiality and lack of formality was very pleasant and no one present hesitated in saying so.

Off to Fort Myer.

At about half past two the gathering entered the carriages which awaited them, and were conveyed to Fort Myer, where a cavalry drill was given for the entertainment of the prince.

The distinguished guest, praised the soldiers and their discipline, which, he said, reflected to the credit of their officers.

At the conclusion of the drill a reception was tendered to the distinguished guest by the commandant, Col. Hatfield, at his home.

The prince then returned to the British Embassy and rested for a little while. Tonight he will go to the White House, where a dinner will be given by President Roosevelt. This will be, so far as is now known, the last formal feature during the prince's stay in this city, and his chief event.

Nothing has been arranged for tomorrow, but it is believed that the prince will make a visit to Mount Vernon. Luncheon will be had at the British embassy, and in the afternoon he will attend a tea to be given by the Admiral of the Navy and Mrs. Dewey at their Rhode Island avenue home.

Plan for Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night will be spent quietly by Prince Louis. Monday morning a last drive will be made about the city during which the prince and his staff will take in many points of interest by a rapid glance.

Monday at noon Rear Admiral Evans will escort the prince back to Annapolis, and with that the visit of the royal sailor will end.

Prince Louis has accepted an invitation to visit Baltimore, where he will be received by the mayor at the city hall, and later will attend a luncheon to be given by the British consul, Gilbert Frazier. On Tuesday at noon, before leaving for Baltimore, the prince will give a luncheon on board his flagship, the Drake, in honor of the British ambassador, Sir Mortimer Durand.

He will return to Annapolis late Tuesday night, and then will sail for New York at once.

Round of Receptions

For Royal Visitor

Yesterday, the prince's first day in the Capital of the United States, was a pleasant and an eventful one. His serene highness had luncheon with Sir Mortimer Durand at the British embassy, following which he was received at the White House by the President.

Next came a visit to the Navy Department, where the distinguished guest was presented to Secretary Bonaparte.

The day concluded with dinner at the British embassy, followed by a ball, at which there was one of the most brilliant assemblages known to the history of the social life in Washington.

The reception at the White House was particularly a happy event. There were present the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Sir Mortimer and Lady Durand, with other members of the British embassy, the Cabinet officers and their ladies, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey, Lieutenant General and Mrs. Chaffee,

VISITING BRITISH ADMIRAL AND GEN. CHAFFEE, WHO ENTERTAINED HIM

H.M. PRINCE LOUIS OF BATTEBURG ON THE DECK OF FLAGSHIP DRAGON AT ANNAPOLIS.
FROM STEREOGRAPH, COPYRIGHT 1905
UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD, N. Y.

GEN. A. R. CHAFFEE
PHOTO BY WALDON FAWCETT

and the members of the two squadrons.

The affair was entirely informal, lasting about half an hour. The guest arrived at the north entrance, going thence to the blue room. A large crowd showed its interest in the visitor by gathering along Pennsylvania avenue to see the prince enter and leave the White House grounds.

Received by Bonaparte.

After the reception at the White House, the prince, accompanied only by his immediate staff, was received by Secretary Bonaparte and the chiefs of divisions in the Navy Department. The reception was hurriedly planned and, like all the other functions of the day, was characterized by a note of informality.

The prince expressed his admiration of the American navy, and said he was glad to have the opportunity of meeting the executive head. When he left the building, he was cheered by the clerks assembled on the stairs. Hardly had the prince left when Secretary Bonaparte rushed out of the building headed for the train that would take him to his Maryland home.

The prince's day wound up with the dinner given him by the British ambassador and Lady Durand, followed by a magnificent reception and dance at the embassy on Connecticut avenue. Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, came from New York to be at the reception and dinner. He and the prince have been close friends for a long time.

Those at the Dinner.

Those at the dinner were Flag Capt. Mark E. F. Kerr, Flag Lieut. Gerald Sowerby, Secretary Edward H. Sherman, and Engineer Commander William F. Pamplett; Secretary of State Root, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey, the Lieutenant General of the Army and Mrs. Chaffee, the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Bacon, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Oliver, the former Ambassador to Great Britain, Mr. Choate; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Taft, wife of the Secretary of War; Commander Charles H. Robert-

SIMPLE JOY.

It Feels Mighty Good to Be Clear of Coffee Ails.

A Massachusetts woman had been a life-long coffee drinker and was slow to suspect that it was this habit that was making her life miserable.

"The knowledge came to her at last, fortunately, before it was too late.

"I can now see," she writes, "that the use of the old kind of coffee was the cause of my poor health, and before going any further, I want to say that Postum Food Coffee has done more for me than all the different medicines I took in the years I was ailing, for it has made me a well woman, while the medicines always failed. I have been drinking Postum for two years now, and shall never give it up willingly.

"The first intimation of breaking health that I had was when my stomach gave out; my digestion was so impaired that I had no appetite for breakfast and but little for any other meal. Then I became the victim of sleeplessness, and arose in the morning tired and languid and utterly unfit for the duties of the day before me. I grew so nervous that I could not hold my pen, my flesh fell away and I became painfully thin.

"I must acknowledge the help that doctor gave me in finding out what was really the matter with me, for after vainly prescribing medicines, he suggested that I give up coffee. I did so, but with very little hope that it would do any good. I had to have something in the way of a hot, table beverage and fortunately, hit upon Postum.

"Quite a little time elapsed before the coffee poison was worked out of my system, but this was at last accomplished, and from that moment my health improved in every way. Today I am as healthy a woman as can be found. My strength has returned, I sleep beautifully, my digestion has been completely restored, and I enjoy a good, hearty breakfast with no distress to follow it. My nervousness has disappeared, and I have taken on flesh so rapidly that my friends tell me I am 'getting fat.' I weigh more than I ever did before."

Some given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

W. B. Moses & Sons

Important Sales

Embracing
Domestic Rugs,
Carpets, and
Oak Dining Room
Furniture

Sideboards,
Dining Chairs,
Extension Tables,
China Cases

To start Monday morning
See Sunday Star for prices

W.B. Moses & Sons
F Street, Corner 11th

PAINLESS MOTLEY
Washington's Painless Dentist.
611 7th St. N. W.
Phone Main 4846.

Washington Sunday Times

Special Features for Tomorrow

Hon. Peter V. De Graw, at His Desk, Dictating a Letter to His Stenographer in Adjoining Room.

—Copyright, 1905, By National Press Association, of Washington, D. C.

The Shortest Telegraph System in the World

Fourth Assistant Postmaster General De Graw has a method of killing time and space that frequently causes his callers to suspect that he is a dabbler in black magic.

The Fastidious American Traveler's Insistent Demand for Luxuries

Speed on ocean liners is no longer "the thing," but restaurants serving a la carte meals at all hours, shops offering fresh cut flowers in mid-ocean, and other similar trifles are required of the new giants of the sea.

The Ocean Liner of Fifty Years Ago
and the One That Crosses the Atlantic
Today.

Slaughter of Innocents Chills Richmond's Heart

Of the nine children in the Perkins family, five have died from poisoning, and deadly doses have been administered to half the survivors notwithstanding the efforts of the police to protect the little ones and capture the fiend who is murdering them.

Edward Perkins, Holding the Dead Body of His Daughter, Octavia, the Latest Little Victim of the Poisoner.

Kaiser Wilhelm's New Plan to Gain America's Friendship

By exchanging professors between the universities of Germany and the United States the Strenuous War Lord hopes to establish ties that will forever bind the two nations together.

"The Purple Dress"—By O. Henry

The romance of a department store which sets forth an act of unreasonable generosity on the part of a "sales-lady" and apparently adduces overwhelming proof to support the time-honored theory that virtue is its own reward.

Young Ogden Mills' Difficult Wooing of Cynthia Roche

The heir to many millions has led a strenuous life during his pursuit of the fickle beauty, but after three years of patient courtship has finally won her from a host of suitors, according to gossip in Mrs. Mills' "225."

The Ups and Downs of Life in the Washington Monument

Amusing incidents of Washington's rural visitors who "shoot the shaft" at the south end of the White Lot.

An Informal Chat With Viola Allen

The celebrated actress discusses some points for The Sunday Times that have not been touched upon in previous interviews she has given.